

TWO MORE RAIDS IN WESTERLY

Contraband Beverages Found in Pierce Street—County Commissioners Look Over Pawcatuck's Fourteen Proposed Saloon Sites—Theft from Dock Home—Rev. George W. Rigler Reads Resignation—Grand Master Nathan Visits I. O. O. F.

County Commissioners Williams, Noyes and Chadwick were in the village of Pawcatuck Saturday afternoon and made an inspection of the fourteen places for which application has been made for liquor licenses. The commissioners first visited the Halpin place and Mahoney's in West Broad street, and then the places at the village and waterfront intended to occupy in Mechanic street, and thence to the Cella building, near the railroad bridge, which Reynolds has secured for a saloon.

They next visited the places in Liberty street covered by the Keleher, McGowan and Cella applications, all within two hundred feet of the Congregational church. The commissioners are unanimously declared that it was impossible to grant licenses for these places as the new law was mandatory in that respect. Michael T. Keleher, one of the applicants, was introduced to the commissioners, and Mr. Noyes stated plainly that license could not be issued; he told Mr. Keleher that he rather liked his looks and that if the place was a suitable one under the law that he would gladly favor his application. Mr. Keleher appreciated the compliment and said that if he had been granted a license he would have conducted a saloon even better than the law required. When Louis Cella informed the commissioners that he had a license for his place when the town of Stonington voted license five years ago and that he did not violate the law, he was informed that he was considered a suitable person, but under the new law he was an unsuitable place as it was within the prescribed distance from the church.

The commissioners then took a view of the Carey place in Garden street, and those of Castagna, corner Morgan and Liberty streets; Storion, Marino and Shea in Liberty street, and Shea in Robinson street. The commissioners may issue license to the limit allowed by law, one saloon for each 500 of population. Next Thursday the commissioners will give a hearing on the nine applications from Stonington borough in the morning, and in the afternoon there will be a hearing on the applications of Bernard Halpin and John Mahoney of Pawcatuck, corner Morgan and Liberty streets, and the application of Louis Cella was assigned for hearing at the same time, but as he is barred from license will probably put in no appearance.

It is understood that the application for a license at the Robinson street, Shea, will not be granted, owing to the nearness of the church.

ness of the place to a schoolhouse, at present unoccupied, but which is still school property. Rev. John P. Neale, D.D., pastor of St. Michael's church, informed the commissioners that he was opposed to the location of any saloons in that section of the town, and that a protest to that effect would be filed with the commissioners. The objection was on general principles as detrimental to the morals of the rising generation.

One of the commissioners remarked that while the majority of voters of the town of Stonington declared in favor of license, the minority was resorting to all sorts of methods to thwart the expressed wish of the majority. It seemed the plain duty of the commissioners to license in strict compliance with law and to respect the majority vote of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dock, who occupy the Brown homestead in High street, spent Friday evening away from home, leaving the house in charge of James, the butler. When they returned, Mr. Dock noticed a window in the rear of the house was open. He investigated and found that his valuable fur overcoat was missing. It was evident that a thief had entered the house by raising the window and stolen the coat. The butler reported that he heard a noise and came downstairs. It is supposed that the thief from the premises, saw the butler but the fur overcoat was taken. Mr. Dock reported the theft to Chief Brandeis.

At the morning service of the First Baptist church, Rev. George W. Rigler, D.D., read his resignation, to take effect November 15. He has accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church in Louisville, Ky. Dr. Rigler has been pastor in Westerly for four years, coming here from East Providence.

The executive committee of the Young Men's Republican club of Rhode Island have declared in favor of ex-Gov. George H. Utter of Westerly as successor to Congressman Cavanaugh and have formally notified the committee of five who have the nomination for representative from the Second congressional district under consideration. The club declared in favor of "man of Mr. Utter's known high moral standards, energy and ability, whose nomination would give assurance to the voters that, if elected, the state would be ably represented."

The convention will be held Wednesday, and while an early call of the delegates shows that Mr. Utter is the favorite, the friends and supporters of Governor Utter are coming out strongly in his favor. The Worcester delegation declare publicly in favor of Governor Utter, and a majority of the delegates from the Blackstone valley are among his supporters.

John Uzzi suffered a severe accident Saturday evening while in his yard at 14 Dayton street. He had secured a condemned telephone pole for use as the support of a trolley clothes line, and, assisted by several of his neighbors, was getting the pole into place. Two men carried the pole on their shoulders and supporting that all the men were on one side of the pole, the pole was thrown to the ground. Uzzi was on the opposite side and the pole struck him in the right leg, breaking both bones between the knee and ankle. Dr. Scanlon was summoned and with the assistance of Dr. Chapman, the fractures were reduced.

The police of Westerly added two more liquor raids to the long list on Saturday night. Chief Brandeis, with search warrant, led the raid upon the premises of Michele Rosa in the rear of 70 Pierce street. Half a barrel of ale on draught was seized and taken to police headquarters. Deputy Chief Brown led the raid upon the premises of Antonio Salsomono, in the same section. He served search warrant and made a thorough search for that which intoxicating liquor upon the premises.

Grand Master Nathan M. Wright, accompanied by the other state officers made an official visitation to Narragansett lodge, No. 1, Independent Order of Old Fellows, Saturday evening. There were remarks for the welfare of the order by the grand officers, and Grand Secretary William H. Mosley gave an interesting report of the visit of the Rhode Island delegation to the session of the sovereign grand lodge held in Atlanta, Ga. After the lodge was closed there was a celebration and social session.

Mrs. Emma Kely, operator at the passenger station, has returned from a trip to Niagara Falls. Frank Denison of Mystic had charge of the office while she was away.

Specimen Foreman Andrew Johnson and men have been constructing new fences at the upper Main and Water street and the Elm street crossings.

Thirty-Three Applications for Licenses.

Applications for liquor licenses are being made daily to Commissioner E. F. Williams. Already about thirty-three have been received for saloons in the town of Stonington. The meeting to act upon this question will probably be held this week. Many who had applied have withdrawn their applications, being discouraged at the number already in.

The steamer Watch Hill has been taken to Mystic, where she will undergo repairs and painting and will lay up for the season.

Theodore Devhurst is in New York. Albert Walters of Portland, Me., and Mrs. Walters are guests of relatives in town.

Stevenson of Somers was elected chairman of the meeting and Louis Phelps of Bolton clerk. The following committees were appointed by the chair: Resolutions, Edward M. Yarnolds of Andover; E. Burke of Ellington and C. E. Huntington of Mansfield; credentials, William Buell of Columbia; local committee, George H. Woodworth of Coventry; resolutions endorsing the state platform and party nominees were adopted. The following senatorial committee was elected: George Foster of Rockville, James Marsh of Andover and M. D. O'Connell of Stafford Springs.

MILLIONAIRE REAM

Sells Pure Water at Nominal Price to Thompson Neighbors.

A special from Thompson to the New York Sunday World said: Norman B. Ream, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit magnate, who has a summer home in this town, has embarked upon a new enterprise. He is selling water to the thirsty residents. No rain has fallen to moisten the sun-baked ground in this hilltop corner of Connecticut for five months. High fields are withered as fine as ashes and about all the wells and cisterns went out of business weeks and weeks ago.

ity. Ream has come to the rescue with his driven well, which yields a seemingly inexhaustible supply of pure drinkable water at the rate of 200 gallons a minute. This is not the first venture of the traction financier in water, but hitherto his activities in this line have been confined more or less to aiding in the dilution of stocks. This is his first appearance on the simon-pure water wagon, so to speak. Mr. Ream is now selling excellent water at the rate of $1 per 450 gallons. This he believes is below par value. The dry inhabitants consider it a bargain. Mr. Ream's driven well extends down into Thompson hill 365 feet. It cost $3 a foot to drive the well, and the millionaire has already sold enough water to pay for the bore. The tubing was sunk in his 1,000-acre estate, which is the classic heretobouts and has the finest golf course in the state.

The impid yield is pumped into two stone Gothic tanks, one above the other, ivy clad, containing respectively 20,000 and 30,000 gallons. All his customers are water customers. Mr. Ream's handsome water wagon, drawn by a pair of Percherons and driven by his hired man, has been kept on the road two months conveying the useful element to investors in the capitalist's pure, unadulterated primordial stock.

As no household has washtubs enough to contain 450 gallons, Mr. Ream's hired man lets it run into a hose into the purchaser's well. Then they pump it up with their own windmills or other devices required by the best families, the Olneys, Chandlers, Larneds, Doanes, Seales and Croshys are numbered among Norman B. Ream's water customers. All his customers say it is good water, taken either straight or in combination with other liquids.

The village looks upon the railroad promoter and capitalist as a benefactor and life savor.

The Governorship.

Election day will come just three weeks from Tuesday next. It is time to be stirring, and there is abundant evidence that things are doing. Public meetings are also useful to arouse the voters and to show that they are aroused. It is by discussion and action that the voters of this year are to be stirred.

The question for the voters this year is whether to continue the republican party in power. So far as national questions are involved, we cannot see any reason why a single republican should vote for a democratic candidate for congress.

Taft every time, and voting for a democrat is turning the back on the president. We should sustain him, not hamper him. His course in office up to date is remarkable for the vast amount of accomplishment to its credit. He will go on doing what is needed if he has a congress to back him. Nobody need have any fear of old Cannon going back into the speakership. He has ceased to be an issue, and is only a memory, interesting if not agreeable.

In the state itself the republican party deserves support. Mr. Goodwin, the young standard bearer of the republicans, is a gentleman of the highest character, tied to nobody and to nothing but the interests of the state. He has had unusual experience in the executive office and knows the government thoroughly from the inside. He will be found upright, high minded, conscientious and moved by the finest public spirit.

This is the man who is the younger men are doing the work, and there is none better qualified alike by experience and character than Charles A. Goodwin—Hartford Courier.
